

O Kaplan, My Kaplan!

John Jay's first effort to compete in the Kaplan Leadership Program was an immediate success with the selection of Janet Araya, a criminal justice major. She was chosen along with nine other City University students for the program's 2008 cohort, its largest to date.

The Kaplan Leadership Program is aimed at helping associate degree students move into and successfully complete a bachelor's degree.

Araya's acceptance letter from the foundation noted, "Your academic success, commitment to pursuing your education, the strength of your application and the positive impression you made during your interviews all contributed to our decision."